The people of more or less wealth, those who have in the pass expressed preference to have New London a residential rather than a manufacturing city, are just beginning to realize their mistake, and are act-

There is no reason There is no reason why a city lo-cated as is New London should not be among the larger cities of the stats and it would have been years ago out for the lack of enterprise, or rather, the desire of some of its citizens to industries, in the hope of having almost strictly residenital city an almost strictly residential city. Now that a more get-together spirit prevails, it is believed that by persistent effort New London as a city of importance will, in the not distant future, be a city of first rank.

planned to convert the rectory into a parish house and use the present parish house as a rectory. There is a bit of interesting history in connection with the parish house. Originally it was the home of William Billings and was built on the same lines as the house adjoining by his brother Noyes, the latter house now being owned by Dr. Frederick W. Farnesworth.

William Billings died many years ago and in the course of time the property was osralled by a real estate shark as a speculation. Nearby property owners would not pay the price, and the sharper made an attempt to change the conditions of the-then semi-aristocratic Federal street. He converted the Billings manor into a tenement house of low type, filling the house with undesirable tenants, of all shades and characters. In the end purchasers were created, the property shades and characters. In the end purchasers were created, the property retrieved and the neighborhood purified.

The property came into the possession of St. James' parish and the house was extensively repaired and ever since it has been used as a parish house. The present rectory is in the rear of the church and the parish house is on the opposite side of the street.

Those who know say that the parish house is betted adapted for the needs of the rector and his family.
